I came across the Dark Soul while playing with friends at our university library. I couldn't wait to read it but I was a little hesitant to bring it home with me. A few of my friends gave me really nice and encouraging feedback about it; making me feel at ease to pick it up and read it. The Dark Soul is a very unique book. In fact, it's not only unique, but it's imaginative and unique in a way that creates a very unique vibe. Not unlike the book that I would later read, Jane Eyre, it is a very sensual book. It's also a very sensual read. It's not like any other book I have read in a long time. It has such a unique feel to it that it's almost as if you're reading a very old novel written before the birth of time. It goes that deep into the emotional states of the characters. You really feel what they feel when they think and what they are thinking and how their mind is trying to comprehend the world around them. I think this book is at its very best when you are very emotionally tied to what happens within the book. You need to believe in the characters and you need to connect with them on an emotional level so that you can feel what they feel. It's also very intriguing when you can predict what will happen next and see how it all plays out. The ending is a big surprise but it was one of those 'Ah ha' moments. It's very beautifully written and I really enjoyed this book. It's almost as if the writer wished to leave a very inspiring message to her audience. Without giving anything away, the ending has a very strong message to it; a message that's very important in this day and age. A lot of people find it very difficult to deal with true love because of their fear of being 6d1f23a050
